

H5P – Course Presentation

- Course presentations consist of slides with multimedia, text, and many different types of interactions like interactive summaries, multiple choice questions and interactive videos.
- A typical use of the Course Presentation activity is to use a few slides to introduce a subject and follow these with a few more slides in which the user's knowledge is tested.
- Course Presentations may however be used in many different ways, including as a presentation tool for use in the classroom, or as a game where the usual navigation is replaced with navigation buttons on top of the slides to let the user make choices and see the consequences of their choices.
